IN THE CHURCHES

In the year 1893 there were two hundred and twenty-four churches, of which ninety-six were colored and 128 white. The list at the beginning of this year, 1895, comprises 147 white churches and 84 colored, total of 231, and a gain of seven. Dividing the number according to denominations, there are fifteen white and fortysix colored Baptist churches: fifteen white and one colored Roman Catholic churches: one Washington Ecclesia of the Christadelphian Church: two Christian churches; twenty-five white and four Protestant Episcopal churches: two Friends' churches; one located in the Y. M. C. A. building; two Hebrew synagogues; thirteen Lutheran churches, all white; twenty-six Methodist Episcopal, white, and thirty colored churches; five Methodist Episcopal South churches; seven Methodist Protes.ant; nineteen white and one colored Presbyteran; two Reformed churches; one Sweden borgian; one Unitarian; one Universalist; one United Brethren in Christ, and five miscellaneous churches and missions.

The Methodist Episcopal denomination among the white churches takes the lead, with the colored Baptists occupying the same rank in churches of their race. The year past is distinguished as one of remarkable activity in church construction, there having been no less than thirteen ecifices under way or completed. Of this number the Episcopalians have seven to their credit, as follows: St. Mark's and Grace, completely remodeled; the corner stones laid of St. Thomas' and St. Stephen's; St. Andrew's extensively enlarged and remodeled; the parish house of Trinity P. E. Church dedicated, and also the new church in Le Droit Park. These are credited to the Catholics: St. Cyprian's and St. Paul's, completed, and St. Mat-thew's, in process of construction. The Sunday school house of Calvary Baptist Church was finished and formally opened, while among the colored denominations the edifices of the People's Congregational and of the Second Baptist are still uncompleted.
